DITTY BAGS DATE

BACK TO NELSON

With patriotic organizations and individuals preparing and sending ditty bags to the lads of the Royal Canadian Navy, inquiry is sometimes made to the origin of the name "ditty bag," which dates back to Nelson's day, when British girls packed bags and boxes for sailors and soldiers. The custom was to enclose in the package cards bearing not only the name of the sender, but also verses, such as "Roses are red, violet are blue," etc. This habit of including a verse or ditty with the gift led to the name.—Ex.

CENTRAL UNITED CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING

The annual congregational meeting of Central United church, Blairmore, was held on Monday, 18th January, at eight o'clock in the evening. A short devotional service preceded the business, which was conducted by the minister, Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A. Mr. Donald MacPherson occupied the chair.

The secretary-treasurer, Mr. Sam McDowell, presented the financial statement for the year 1942. All obligations had been met, and the sum of $200 was raised for the missionary and maintenance fund of the church.

The Ladies' Aid Society, under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Moore, had a very successful year. Miss Gertrude Oliver, the treasurer, in her report, stated that the sum of $865.35 had been raised during the year. In her report as secretary, Mrs. Jack Patterson pointed out that the money raised had come from such activities as teas, sales of home cooking, circle teas, a banquet and membership dues. The circle teas had brought in the sum of $214, and from the special canvass the sum of $216 had been realized. The Aid closed the year with a balance of $57.97. Owing to wartime conditions and other things a number of activities were shortened.

In the absence of Mr. Roland Pinkney, who is the treasurer for the Sunday schools, the report was read by Mrs. D. A. Howe. The total amount from both Sunday schools, senior and junior, was $241.69. The Sunday schools had given $59.11 to the missionary and maintenance fund of the church, and other donations were made to the Queen's Fund, the Russian Relief Fund, and a substantial amount went for the purchase of War Savings Certificates, which were given to help reduce the deficit of the United Church of Canada. An increase was noted in the total receipts over the year 1941.

In reporting for the junior Sunday school, Mrs. D. A. Howe pointed out some of the school's activities. The first Sunday of every month is a missionary Sunday, when the entire offerings of the senior and junior Sunday schools go to the missionary and maintenance fund of the church. A missionary story precedes the lesson for the day. The pupils make use of mission boxes, birthday bank, and what is known as the patriotic box, from which contributions are made to worthwhile causes. It gives one a thrill to witness with what eagerness the young people come forward to deposit their extra offerings in the patriotic box. The young people were glad to know that they were able to make contributions from this box towards the Queen's Fund and the Russian Relief Fund. There is also a cradle roll in connection with the junior school, on which there are 33 names of children not old enough yet to attend the regular sessions of the Sunday school. Some young men are misled from the ranks of our senior Sunday school and young people's society on account of their being in some branch of the armed forces.

Central United church has two very active C.G.I.T. groups, the "Commandos," led by Mr. Fred Smith, who also serves as the church's choir, and the "Grows," whose leader is Miss Dorothy Moore. The younger girls, the "Golden Keys," are under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Hamilton. There are also two boys' groups, the Trail Rangers and the Explorers, with mentors, Alfred McKay and Roland Pinkney, respectively—all of whom are giving excellent service.

In reporting for the session, Rev. E. B. Arrol stated that twelve new members had united with the church on confession of faith; twenty-nine adults and infants had been baptized; thirty marriages had been performed; twelve funerals conducted, and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper had been dispensed three times during the year.

94 LANCASTERS IN HEAVIEST UNESCORTED DAYLIGHT RAID OF THE WAR

An artist's impression of British attack on Schneider works. On October 17th, 1942, 94 of Britain's giant 4-engined Lancaster bombers attacked the famous Schneider armament works at Le Creusot, 170 miles southeast of Paris, in the heaviest unescorted daylight raid of the war. Severe damage was inflicted in seven minutes of concentrated low-level heavy bombing and only one Lancaster was lost. Two of three Arado floatplanes, which attempted to attack the R.A.F. forces, were shot down into the sea. The British Lancaster is the most formidable bomber in the world. She will carry eight tons of high explosive and has a range of 3,000 miles. Her ten guns make her a formidable opponent when attacked and especially suitable for such daylight attacks. Picture shows an artist's vivid impression of Lancasters swooping at low level to attack the Schneider works.

EDDY-WOJTYLA

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's United church, Coleman, on Saturday, January 16th, at 10:30 a.m., when Rosie Wojtyla and Archie Eddy, both of Beaver Mines, Alberta, were united in marriage, Rev. J. E. Kirk officiating.

The bride was attractively attired in floor-length satin, wore a full-length blue sheer gown, with a chanced veil to match and carried a large bouquet of pink mums. Roy Eddy, a brother, supported the groom. Coleman guests in attendance were an aunt and a cousin of the bride, namely, Mrs. Tom Rypien and Mr. Stephen Rypien.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Eddy, at Beaver Mines, on Saturday night.

After a short wedding trip to Calgary and other points, the happy couple will reside at Beaver Mines. Their many friends wish them a happy wedded life.

the church's representative to attend the meetings of Presbytery and Conference.

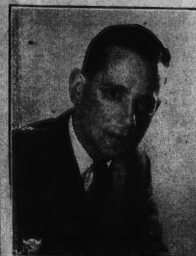

The minister, Rev. Mr. Arrol, expressed his sincere appreciation for the excellent services rendered by the various church boards, the Ladies' Aid, group leaders, Sunday school teachers, and the organist, Miss Georgette Dett.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served, and a happy time of fellowship was enjoyed.

BRITISH DESTROYER SINKS ITALIAN U-BOAT BY RAMMING

The British Navy is striking terror into the hearts of U-boat crews by its method of sinking by ramming. When depth charges have forced the U-boat to the surface, the British destroyer races in for the kill, often cutting the enemy craft clean in two. Recent victim of these deadly tactics was the Italian submarine "Cobalto," which attacked a British convoy in the Mediterranean and was rammed and sunk by the British destroyer "Ithuriel" within the space of a few minutes. Some of the Italian crew were saved. Picture shows the "Ithuriel" approaching the rapidly sinking "Cobalto" to take off those of the crew who remained on board.

PROUD OF THE PAST

Canada's island province, Prince Edward Island, will honor one of its great pioneers in the C.B.C. "Heroes of Canada" series. This Friday, January 22nd, this school series will pay tribute to John Stewart, champion of liberty. His story will be told by a contemporary Prince Edward Island author, Harry Ernest Foster, whose many fine radio scripts have provided dramatic entertainment for C.B.C. audiences. "Heroes of Canada" is heard Friday at 3 p.m. M.D.T.

FOUR RULES FOR HOME FRONT

Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, urges women to observe four rules in their line of service on the home front. These rules are: keep cost of living stabilized; buying only what you need; eliminate waste; conserve what you have.

"It is the people of Canada who have made price control work; it is the consumer, and that means every one, who must take active measures to prevent inflation and to guard supplies," the chairman stated.

FARM PAPER ANNOUNCES NEW NOVEL CONTEST

The Family Herald and Weekly Star, long renowned for its unique and entertaining competitions, is at the present time featuring a new, $600.00 prize contest that promises to attain well-deserved popularity throughout the length and breadth of the country. The prize list is an attractive one, embodying 100 prizes with leading awards of $200 $100, and $50.

Called "Fun on the Farm," this contest might best be described as a pictorial word-building game in which the contestant completes certain words pertaining to farm objects, situations or actions, then uses the letters of these words to build up other words represented in the puzzle picture. The object is to use up as many letters of the original words as possible.

In presenting this contest, the Family Herald renders a valuable service in the field of home entertainment. These days, the average person has few dollars available for recreation and amusement, yet, to offset the strains of wartime living, recreation is needed more than ever. The Family Herald hopes that this new contest will help brighten the long winter evenings for all who seek recreation and profit in puzzles.

The first puzzle appeared in the issue of December 16th, but there's still time to start. Arrangements have been made to supply back puzzles to those who did not get in at the beginning.

FARMERS REGISTER AS BUTTER PRODUCERS

Local ration boards in each district are entitled to register farmers as butter producers, according to the rationing administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Farmers are expected to register as butter producers, whether they sell all their butter, just part of it, or consume it all themselves.

Farmers who sell butter made on the farm, either direct to consumer customer, or to retail stores, must collect the proper number of coupons for these sales, according to rationing rules.

The brown coupons (Spare C) are used for butter. These coupons have an expiry date and may not be collected either by a farmer or retailer after that date. Coupons 1, 2, 3 and 4 have expired, and coupons 5 and 6 became valid Monday, January 18, and are good only until January 31.

Two small fires occurred here on Tuesday, doing slight damage at the C.P.R. section house and the school wood-working department.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING

The annual meeting of ratepayers of the Town of Blairmore and Blairmore School District will be held in the Union hall on Friday, January 29th, at 8 p.m.

RATIONING IS FOR GOOD OF ALL

"Rationing is for the benefit of all the people and it is the people's job to make it work, declared R. B. Unwin, administrator of consumer rationing of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, at the western conference of rationing officials of Western Canada being held in Calgary this week.

Mr. Unwin commented that the 560 local ration boards set up across Canada will give invaluable service to the administration and will be used to help with distribution of the new ration book to be issued in March. There are 36 local ration boards in Alberta.

Mr. Unwin felt that distribution was the cause of the ultimate necessity of rationing butter. There was a surplus in Western Canada and shortage in the East. Hoarding and panic buying had ensued, curtailing supplies greatly, even above normal increased consumption, according to the administrator.

C. G. McKee, regional superintendent of rationing, is attending the conference with rationing officers C. M. Scott, Edmonton, and H. R. Bunn, Calgary, and liaison officers C. E. Gariepy, Edmonton; R. F. Johnson, Edmonton; G. E. Proctor, Calgary, and C. A. Bryant, Lethbridge.

MINIATURE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Toronto's newest Boy Scout troop, the 201st Kivans troop, is a miniature league of nations. Among its 28 members are boys of Finnish, Jewish, French-Canadian, Polish, Negro, Russian, Ukrainian and Anglo-Saxon origin. The troop provided a practical demonstration of the Boy Scout principle of world brotherhood.

The death occurred at Calgary on Tuesday of this week of Mrs. Longworth, wife of Thomas Longworth, aged 60 years. She was a former resident of Frank, and is survived by her husband and one son, Jack, who is serving with the Canadian forces overseas. The remains will be laid to rest in Calgary this afternoon.

Plans For Peace

IT HAS BEEN frequently predicted in recent weeks that victory will come to the Allied Nations in 1943. Whether this opinion is too optimistic or not, there is no doubt that the tide of war has now turned in favor of the United Nations and that if our present effort is sustained, as there is no doubt that it will be, victory is only a matter of time. As the prospect of victory becomes brighter, there is increased interest throughout the world in plans for post-war reconstruction. The problem of restoring normal conditions in the countries now living under Hitler's "New Order" will obviously be tremendous. In countries like our own, there will be the economic and social problems arising from the transition from war to peace. It is gratifying to know that the leaders of all the United Nations are giving serious thought to post-war plans, and that in Canada every effort is being made to prepare for that time.

The fall of nations, one by one, in the early part of the war, has taught an unforgettable lesson in the value of unity. There is evidence now that this lesson is functioning on a small scale. At this time there are no great demands on the future, and that after the war we shall have a new society, built on co-operation and mutual trust. The problems arising from the war are many and great, but the problems of peace will be no less serious, and will require equal wisdom and thought if they are to be solved. In his address to the people of the Empire on Christmas day, His Majesty the King said: "Victory will bring us even greater world responsibilities, and we must not be found unequal to a task in the discharge of which we shall draw on the storehouse of our experience and tradition. So, let us welcome the future in a spirit of brotherhood and thus make a world in which, please God, all may dwell together in justice and in peace."

In Canada many of our leaders in public life are devoting much of their time to plans for the post-war period, and it is to be hoped that in this way many of the difficulties which followed the last war will be avoided. In this connection a Veterans' Land Settlement Scheme was approved in Parliament during the last session and it is already functioning on a small scale. At this time there are no great demands on the scheme, due to the fact that there is now plentiful employment for men discharged from the services, who are able to work. Already, however, many thousands of men in the forces have expressed their interest in the settlement scheme, according to Hon. T. A. Crerar, Resources Minister, who is in charge of the undertaking. It doubtless gives a feeling of security to those men and their families who plan to take advantage of the Act, and it is one concrete way in which Canada is preparing to meet the problem of unemployment in the years following the war.

The Nutrition Campaign

The general improvement of the nation's health is the aim of Canada's Nutrition Campaign launched recently, and which is sponsored by Nutrition Services of the Department of Pensions and National Health. Ottawa. The campaign, which was officially announced recently by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, has the approval and support of all government departments connected with the war effort.

"In the face of shortages resulting from a national economy disrupted by the war, it is essential that Canadians become conscious of food values," declares Dr. L. B. Pett, director of Nutrition Services. "A knowledge of nutrition will enable people not only to get the most value for the money they spend on food, but better value out of the food they buy."

A table of official Food Rules for Canada has been drawn up by Nutrition Services giving the minimum daily requirements of the foods necessary to protect health.

FRUIT—Fruit—Minimum 1/2 pint; children—pint or more daily.

VEGETABLES—One serving potatoes daily. Two servings other vegetables, leafy green or yellow, frequently raw.

CEREALS—BREAD—4 to 6 slices whole wheat bread—whole grain cereal daily. Butter on bread.

MEAT—FISH—One serving daily.

EGGS—At least three weekly.

FISH LIVER OILS—As recommended by your physician.

It must be remembered that these are Canada's Wartime Food Rules and where found necessary these amounts may be increased. This is particularly true where milk is concerned.

Observance of these rules by Canadians across the Dominion will mean a higher standard of physical health for the entire population and the results will be felt in the years to come.

Write to Nutrition Services, The Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, Ontario, for your free Vitamin Chart.

CRACKED FLAX SEED—A contributory cause of the generally unsatisfactory condition of the flax crop in Canada seems to lie in the seed itself, states the Dominion Plant Pathology Laboratory at Winnipeg. An examination of several hundred seed samples of flax revealed in many of them a high percentage of cracked seed, apparently largely due to threatening drought very dry weather. When planted in field soil seed containing many cracked kernels is usually low in germination. This defect can be largely or completely overcome by treating such seed with an organic mercury dust.

FERRY COMMAND—Three Canadians serving in Canada with the Royal Air Force Ferry Command have been honored by the King for their work, the Ferry Command announced. All three have received Civil Commendations. The recipients are Capt. W. C. Siple, who is in charge of all civil flying personnel, Capt. A. J. Lilly, chief test pilot, and R. H. T. Hodgson, a radio operator on trans-Atlantic flights.

London scientists now declare that of the 11 different kinds of animals supplying milk for human beings reindeer give the richest.

South America has a population of 77,000,000.

DEMAND FOR BACON

More Bacon Hogs Necessary To Meet Britain's Requirements

It will take a lot of planning and persistent effort, according to Hon. R. J. M. Parker, provincial minister of agriculture, for Saskatchewan farmers to contribute their full share in meeting the terms of the Canadian bacon contract with Great Britain. In a public address recently Mr. Parker said:

"I want to speak very directly and very earnestly to Saskatchewan farmers regarding the production outlook for 1943. A few days ago I attended a meeting in Ottawa, with other Provincial Ministers, to study more closely the food situation in Canada and production goals for next year."

"The first important fact which the conference stressed is that the Prairie Provinces are exceedingly well supplied with feed grain, and none is as well supplied as Saskatchewan. Manitoba has about 50% more feed grain than the 5-year average. Alberta's increase is not quite so great as that of Manitoba, but it is still considerable, or as much per grain-consuming animal unit. Saskatchewan's feed grain supply is almost equal to the 5-year average and more than three times as much per grain-consuming animal unit, a satisfactory position for the province in Canada's livestock producing Province."

"In fact in Saskatchewan this year we have two years' grain crop in one season, twice the current year's estimated marketing quota of 14 bushels per acre at much lower cost than could be sold in two marketing seasons like the present. Coarse grain supplies are equally abundant, and while the government's policy for 1942 implied that farmers could sell at a guaranteed price all the coarse grains they might want to sell, the market demand is not sufficient to provide outlets for such an abundance of oats and barley. In spite of this, however, it is believed that coarse grain acreage should be further increased next year and that acreage correspondingly reduced, since there is more likely to be a better market demand for coarse grains than for wheat during the next eighteen months. Another million bushels of oats and barley, the Agricultural Supplies Board, and Saskatchewan farmers can easily supply this additional grain."

"The abundance of grain, however, is in marked contrast to the meat situation. Larger marketings of pigs and cattle are needed, and are needed in 1943. It appears that meat cattle should be sold more freely next year than was done in 1942. It appears desirable, with so much grain on hand, that calves of beef breeding stock should be sold in order to increase meat supplies at a later time. Beef cattle numbers declined in the last year, and 1937 but have been recovering since that date. It should be possible to market 200,000 head from Saskatchewan next year, compared with about 170,000 head annually during the past two years. Better feeding will make heavier carcasses and provide more meat. There is a great opportunity here to market grain in the form of beef."

"It is in the production of pigs, however, that Saskatchewan appears to have its greatest opportunity. The Dominion has set a goal of 8,000,000 head for all of Canada; this means more pigs than have ever been marketed in any one year in Canadian history. It is less, however, than the small State of Iowa produces every year."

"The chief surplus pig producing areas of Canada are the central provinces of Ontario and the three grain producing, prairie provinces. Prairie production declined by a third in 1935 as a result of the disastrous outbreak of 1937. Alberta and Manitoba recovered quickly and, since the outbreak of the war, have surpassed their previous production goals. In this, Saskatchewan has shown leadership. Their example, although we are behind Manitoba and very far behind Alberta, which in 1942 surpassed the swine production goal of Ontario, the three prairie provinces combined made an impressive showing in 1941 with the production of one-half million pigs more than Eastern Canada, and a production of one million more pigs than all the Eastern provinces together provided in 1942. Saskatchewan, however, has not yet got into her production stride, as have Manitoba and Alberta. In 1941 pig sales from Manitoba farms averaged nine head per farm, and in 1942 they averaged nearly 9 1/2 head per farm. Alberta's marketings averaged 19 1/2 head per farm in 1941 and 22 head per farm in 1942. Saskatchewan figures in comparison show less than 6 1/2 per farm in 1941 and only 10 in 1942. If Saskatchewan's per farm production were equal to the average of Alberta, Saskatchewan farmers could have marketed over three million hogs in 1942. If our production in Saskatchewan during 1943 is to equal Alberta's 1942 average, this province alone should supply considerably more than the entire swine increase that is asked for from all of Canada. And let us not forget that we have more than enough grain to do it and we still have a lot more grain than we are likely to be able to sell for some time. Saskatchewan's production of hogs slumped to all-time low in 1935, with marketings of less than one-quarter million. 1942 marketings appear to be less than 90,000 head. There are a lot of Saskatchewan grain farms from which no pigs are sold. Such a situation was understandable when there was no special demand for meat to serve the war needs, and especially when all of the grain was readily available as grain. The condition today is radically reversed. The grain is not immediately in demand and cannot presently be sold, while meat is scarce and the successful prosecution of the war calls urgently

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and its proper function is essential to your health. For greater production than ever. Moreover, there is a guaranteed market and a good price for all the pigs that Canada can produce.

"On some Saskatchewan farms pig production is a major enterprise with annual production up in the hundreds. Such farms have probably reached their peak in production, but there are many others that have not done so. I think it can be demonstrated convincingly that, at present prices, pig raising is definitely profitable to raise hogs as an alternative to grain. Raising hogs certainly provides a market for the large quantities of grain that can not now be sold directly."

"What can Saskatchewan farmers do now to serve the war effort and at the same time dispose of surplus grain? Let me make this suggestion: Men who want to increase swine production in 1943 can easily do so and produce market hogs for sale in the late months of 1943. Some grain farmers who might feel the urge to do this, but not be in position to act immediately, or may prefer to have someone else breed the pigs for sale during the winter months. Experienced pig breeders with surplus gilts and available boars may be willing to undertake this breeding programme now in order to sell gilts as bred sows or to sell weaners after weaning time, one, however, should do it, and do it at the right time; it is of urgent national importance. It is particularly to experienced swine men to increase their breedings for 1943, and, if they wish breeding sows, than they want to keep, write the Live Stock Commissioner, Regina, to let him know many additional gilts are being bred with the intention of selling the bred sows or gilts at weaning time. The Department wants to know who will have surplus pigs to sell so that help and direction and advice may be given to grain farmers who are planning to feed a lot of grain to pigs next summer with the objects in view of increasing much needed meat supplies and of increasing their disposal of grain."

"Reports indicate that boars are scarce and yet there may be a number of owners who have no further need of them. Those, therefore, who have boars to spare are urged to report to the same to the Live Stock Commissioner, Regina, who will communicate with other farmers who may desire to purchase. Perhaps, too, licensed live stock dealers may be of assistance to farmers who require more boars or sows for breeding purposes. They know of many farmers who have good stock to sell and because of this may render real help."

"It also appeals to those who desire to buy bred sows or weaned pigs to write to the Live Stock Commissioner, Regina, and tell him their requirements and when. The reader should make a note of this now and remember to state whether he is breeding sows to sell or buying bred sows next spring. It should be done at once before it is forgotten."

"Some may be hesitating because of the labour situation. All I can say in this connection is that the war is not over and we cannot without armies must be fed; and it is the duty of National Selective Service to see that men who are essential to successful agricultural production are allowed to continue in this important work. It is the responsibility of National Selective Service to give to agricultural production the consideration it merits in a total war effort as well as to the production of munitions, base metals, lumbering, fishing and the supplying of men for the armed services."

"If there are difficulties in maintaining agricultural production because of necessary help being taken from the farm for any purpose, it is suggested that such write at once to Mr. R. H. Millen, K.C., Regina, giving complete particulars. The Dominion minister of agriculture has nominated Mr. Millen to represent such farmers before the National War Services Board."

Women's Army Increases

The year 1943 has moved swiftly, surely and successfully for the Canadian Women's Army Corps. From about 800 a year ago, the Corps now an integral part of the Canadian Active Army, has increased in strength to about 8,000. The Corps has had amazing progress.

Organized primarily to release Category "A" men of Canada for combat or more active duty, the Women's Army has stepped forth with eagerness and determination to see a job well done. A year ago a few hundred young women of Canada, enlisted in the service of their country for the duration of the war and for 12 months thereafter if the need should arise, were feeling their way along paths hitherto unbroken and unknown.

On The Job

Today they are marching in their thousands not only in Canada but in Great Britain and the United States. They are on the job. They have come from every province in Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, from the farms and scattered communities of the Prairie to the settlements of Northern Ontario and Quebec, from offices, factories, colleges, schools and quiet Canadian homes, women of all classes and types, linked together in the common bond of service and all wearing proudly the khaki of His Majesty's Canadian Forces.

Those who struggled with the formation and organization of the Corps just over 12 months ago may well look back with pride upon their achievements, but none would be content to lose himself in musing retrospect oblivious of the fact that there is yet much to be done. The Corps is pressing forward. More and more women are needed, more and more places must be filled. The demand for assistance far exceeds the present supply and all women of the required age and qualifications are wanted for the Corps.

As evidence that present demands have not overshadowed plans for the future, a general service badge was approved during the year to be given in the event of honorable discharge from the Service. In addition, a Memorial Cross was approved for the mother of any member of the C.W.A.C. who might die or lose her life while on service.

Milestones

The first training centre was opened at MacDonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q. in the beginning of the year. On March 23, the C.W.A.C. became officially part of the Canadian Active Army.

In June, the first cadet course was started at St. Anne de Bellevue and each succeeding month has been the occasion of officers' graduation exercises.

In June a group of C.W.A.C. took part in a great parade in New York, causing considerable interest in the United States and Canada, and giving the Corps much valuable publicity. Early in July the Western Division Basic Training Centre was opened at Vermilion, Alberta, east of Edmonton and on August 15 Major Alice Sorby arrived in England from Canada. She is now C.W.A.C. Staff Officer at Canadian Military Headquarters in London.

Inspiration From A.T.S. Leader

A September highlight was the arrival in Canada of Major-General Jean Knox, the only woman major-general in the British Army and head of the Auxiliary Territorial Service of Great Britain. Her visit to Canada during which she saw the C.W.A.C. in training and in action from coast to coast was an inspiration to the whole Corps and the benefit of her knowledge and experience much towards stimulating the growth of Canada's Women's Army.

Price Control Is A Protection To The Farmers

Toronto. — Any temporary gains that might come to Canadian farmers if prices were permitted to rise without control would be more than wiped out by the deflation and collapse of prices which would follow inflation, Finance Minister Flanagan said in a speech to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

The minister spoke on inflation and the policies adopted by the government to prevent it; and he declared his belief that such policies were worth all the toil and expense of enforcing them.

He acknowledged the possibility some farmers might gain temporarily from unrestricted price increases which wartime financial prosperity had brought if there were no price control. But farm prices would rise as quickly as the prices of things the farmer has to buy, and the farmer would be a greater sufferer in the ultimate collapse.

Mr. Flanagan commended the war effort of the farming community and said it was no less surprising or praiseworthy than the speedy building up of Canada's armed forces and industrial production.

An estimated pre-war agriculture manpower of 1,250,000 able-bodied men had provided 250,000 men for the services and war industries which mean those left on the farms had worked harder and longer and with the help of older men, women and children "have accomplished wonders in production."

There was some argument that inflation would have benefited the farmer but he would lose the increased revenue from increased prices of what he sells on the increased cost of what he had to buy, the minister said.

"The 'very real harm' that agriculture would suffer 'is the deflation and collapse of prices that would follow inflation,'" said Mr. Flanagan.

"Such deflation more than cancels out whatever temporary gains some farmers might make out of the rising markets of inflation."

"If we were spending a great deal of time and effort trying to keep up with the rise in prices, trying to negotiate revisions of wage rates, trying to spend our money before it lost its value, bargaining to keep ahead of the other fellow, we would not be able to keep at our work as well as we can now."

"If we were torn by disputes over rising prices, disputes over the adjustments of pensions and the difficulties of those living on their savings, disputes, even strikes, over wage rates, and by eternal bargaining and haggling, we would certainly impair our unity of spirit."

"If the cost of living were shooting up by substantial amounts each month, we would be trusting the costs of the war upon many of those least able to bear them—distributing these costs unfairly and haphazardly."

"If we let inflation proceed, we would increase greatly the cost of the war and the size of the national debt accumulated during the war. If we let prices get out of control, we would find it very much more difficult to readjust ourselves to peacetime conditions when the war is over, because we would face deflation as well as demobilization."

"For all these reasons, therefore, I consider all the difficulties and costs of price control to be little enough to pay for the advantages that we gain."

REFUEL SUBS

Tanker Submarines Claimed To Be Used By Nazis

New York. — The Berlin radio quoted the German naval high command as announcing for the first time the existence of Nazi "tanker submarines" which it said are able to refuel and repair its U-boat fleet "everywhere in the operations area."

The announcement claimed that so many of these tanker submarines with their "ingeniously thought-out technical appliances" have been built by Germany that "no naval force can ever build as many land submarine bases."

They were likened to "swimming hotels" that could service submarines wherever they operate, submerging along with the craft they were refueling if hostile forces approached.

Geneva, Switzerland. — International committee of the Red Cross announced the arrival in Helsinki, Finland, of quantities of foodstuffs and vitamins as gifts from Canadian and American Red Cross units to Russian war prisoners.

VICTORY NICKEL

Another 12-sided Canadian Coin To Be Issued Soon

Ottawa. — Finance department officials said that issue has been started of a new Canadian 12-sided nickel, the second in six months.

Expected to bear the unofficial name of the "victory nickel," the new coin was made available on Jan. 2 under a schedule arranged with the Royal Canadian Mint.

It supplanted the "beaver nickel," a 12-sided coin first issued six months ago.

The "victory nickel" incorporates in its design the "V for Victory" symbol and the Victory Torch "by way of symbolizing the sacrifice which is being made to achieve victory," in the words of the official announcement. The first 12-sided nickel bore on the back a beaver design similar to the familiar round nickel.

Move To Change Border Restrictions Between Canada And U.S.

Ottawa. — Well informed government sources predicted restrictions on border crossing between Canada and U.S. may soon be eased. British United Press reported.

The lead in the movement for freer travel between the two countries is the American government—which is now reported redrafting its border requirements. The Canadian government, according to Ottawa observers, is taking similar steps.

Canada And U.S. Have Agreed On Food Production

Washington. — The United States and Canada have agreed on methods of producing maximum quantities of food in 1945 for the common good of the United Nations. It was announced here, following a conference between Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner of Canada and the United States Secretary of Agriculture, Claude Wickard.

The Canadian minister, with seven officials of the agricultural department, came to Washington at Wickard's invitation. The general purpose was to further the co-ordination of food production programs between the two countries.

A joint agricultural committee, consisting of officials of the two countries, will be established to keep a constant watch on production and distribution developments. It will report to both governments and, in certain respects, is similar to the joint board on industrial production already functioning.

It was announced the agricultural goals of the two countries as set for 1945, are considered adequate because they have been designed to produce the biggest volume of food from the standpoint of the requirement of the United Nations. It also was agreed that after 1945, increases and adjustments of production programs will be undertaken in order to meet prospective demands.

A statement issued by the department of agriculture, endorsed by the Canadian delegation, set special emphasis during the conference was placed on the importance of expanding livestock production in both countries. This would reduce the big surplus of feed grain held both by Canada and United States. It also was agreed to take steps toward establishing adequate reserve supplies of feed with a view to a possible interchange between the two countries as the need arises.

Consideration was given to feed production, especially grass and clover seed in Canada. Canada expects to increase her acreage of alfalfa, alsike and red clover this year and may find a ready market in the United States for excess production.

It was announced attention was paid to the movement overseas of food products from Canada and United States. It was agreed it would be desirable to make some shifts in production for export to Britain, with a view to supplying larger quantities from Canada and less from United States.

An agreement on this phase of the negotiations will be sought later, it was stated, particularly on the extent of the shift from the standpoint of production policies and food supplies in both countries.

BUTTER HOARDING

Ottawa. — Indications of considerable butter hoarding were found in reports received from householders by the Ottawa regional office of the price board.

DEADLY BOMB

New Type Used By Royal Air Force In Spanish Destruction

London. — The censor permitted the first mention recently of the R.A.F.'s use of a new 2,000-pound "slow-bomb" in several recent raids on Germany.

With a secret braking device it falls at reduced speed and on impact spreads destruction rather than dissipating most of its power downward.

The drag is in the form of a cap at one end. The R.A.F. said the new bomb could not be described accurately as a parachute type because it does not float.

The upward and outward effects of the explosion on impact are described as "terrific."

PLOT IN RUMANIA

Police Have Arrested More Than 4,000 Persons

London. — Reuters news agency said reports had reached Switzerland from Budapest that Rumanian police had arrested more than 4,000 persons and had executed 50 after uncovering an Iron Guard plot against Marshal Antonescu, Rumanian chief of state.

The despatch said Axis troops were guarding Bucharest streets, manning machine-guns at key points in the Rumanian capital.

WAVE OF TERRORISM

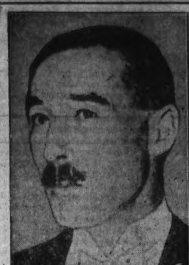

Greeks Have Been Transported To Italy In Chains

Cairo. — Greek officials announced that 300 Greeks, including generals, other officers and civilians, had been transported to Italy in chains from Axis-occupied Greece.

On information received from Greece, these officials said guerrilla activities in that country had brought a fresh wave of terrorism from the Italian occupying authorities.

Diplomat Dead

Sir Neville Henderson, one of England's senior diplomats and the last British ambassador to Germany, is dead at his home in London. Both criticized and praised for his alignment with Chamberlain's appeasement policy at Munich in 1938, Sir Neville published a book "Failure of a Mission," in 1940. It described his experiences in Germany. Since 1941 he has been an officer in the Home Guard.

BLACK LIST

Canadians Forbidden To Trade With 12,238 Companies

Ottawa. — Canadians now are forbidden to trade with 12,238 companies and individuals who operate outside of enemy territory. It was disclosed with issuance of a new consolidation of the official list of "specified persons" with whom trading is forbidden.

A division by countries shows the largest number of specified persons to be in Spain. There are 1,190 in that country. South American countries rank high with 1,140 in Chile, 1,102 in Peru and 964 in Argentina.

These Rations Will Save Many Men's Lives

After many months of preparation and development the Royal Canadian Navy has produced new "emergency rations" which are hailed by experts in Great Britain and United States as the most modern of their kind. Left, Lieut. Reginald W. Millard of Vancouver holds a sample of the new "emergency ration" water. Just developed. It took long hours of research to produce this vital water which doesn't rust the inside of cans. Centre, Wren Marjorie McKeg of Edmonton enjoys the highly concentrated new ration biscuits. Right, is Lt. James Campbell, Toronto biochemist, who has just completed the new Canadian Navy emergency rations container, which has been ordered to all H.M.C. ships.

Ocean Outlet For Alaska Highway

Ships loading vital war supplies at the terminus of the White Pass and Yukon railway at Skagway, Alaska. The White Pass and Yukon narrow gauge railway line is the only link between the newly-completed Alcan highway and the ocean. The 111-mile-long road, built 40 years ago to haul gold from the Klondike, has been leased by the U.S. army for the duration to aid in pouring men and materials from the States to Alaska and the Aleutians. The line runs between Skagway at the head of the Inside Passage, and Whitehorse, in Canada's Yukon territory.

MALTA STRONGHOLD

Destroyed 855 Enemy Planes In 1942, Besides Many Ships

London. — Malta, the British Mediterranean stronghold which has suffered more bombing raids than any other one spot during this war, destroyed 855 enemy aircraft in 1942, the Middle East news service of the R.A.F. said.

Of these, 773 were shot down by R.A.F. fighters with loss of 195 British craft. The pilots of 88 of these were saved, however. Anti-aircraft fire accounted for 182 of the enemy craft.

On the offensive against enemy supply ships in the Mediterranean, R.A.F. planes based on Malta attacked 46 convoys, six single vessels and five forces of naval vessels.

The score was 46 ships either sunk, severely damaged or left in flames and about 40 other ships damaged to a less degree.

Naval aircraft based at Malta hit 37 ships with bombs or torpedoes, including four cruisers and two destroyers.

In its attempts to knock out the island, the enemy last year dropped 19,000 tons of bombs on it.

Striking back with its limited resources, planes from Malta have dropped 1,500 tons of bombs on the enemy in North Africa and Sicily.

FOOD REDUCTION

Further Restrictions For British People To Save Shipping Space

London. — Britons are going to be asked to tighten their belts a few more notches, the food ministry said in announcing that reductions will be made in food rations, but added that the process will be so gradual it may not be noticeable for some time.

Reductions began January 11 and will be spread out over six months. Extent of the reductions was not announced immediately.

The move will make more shipping space available for war materials.

British Approve The Speech Of Pres. Roosevelt

London. — British government circles declared unofficially that President Roosevelt's speech to congress was one of his best and Britons generally cheered the address, which was heard clearly throughout Britain on the BBC radio relay.

The Daily Express said that "As we read his account of the American war equipment we were cheered and made confident."

"But there was one solemn reflection," the Express added. "This year many branches of American and British war industry will reach their production peaks. No longer can we look to the future for bigger output on present plans. Our preparations have come to the last proof: . . . we do not fear the ordeal."

Britons especially applauded when the president told congress that "We are going to strike and strike hard in Europe."

While the president's address was being heard in Britain, the BBC began telling the occupied countries of Europe what he was saying. The BBC broadcast the speech in 26 languages and in 135 news bulletins.

The Daily Mail said: "A man of action and a man of vision speak in the noble words of President Roosevelt's address to congress. The president will fight the Axis to the last minute with the last gun. And when the war is over he will do his utmost to see that his country fights against want and fear both as a nation and as a member of the international order."

The London Daily Telegraph said: "Roosevelt spoke to the congress in the spirit of the offensive which inspires his country and the Allies. . . such a message should give a good start to congress, which may well prove to be historic."

The Manchester Guardian commented: "In the closing passages of his speech Roosevelt developed the further application of the four freedoms which he first outlined in a message two years ago."

"Two years ago he stated these as ideals. Now he stated them as positive practical objects to which the American people must address themselves. 'Freedom from want' was put not in abstract terms but as a demand of the ordinary people. . . and as a matter for congress to think about."

"In political terms the president indicated sharply that if congress does not concern itself with economic policies designed to secure full employment and with social security schemes to give 'assurances against life's hazards' it would be the worse for congress."

The London News Chronicle said: "The president's confidence in the triumph of the United Nations contrasts sharply with the despondent tone of Hitler's recent speeches. . . His emphasis upon the necessity of planning now for the four freedoms will give great satisfaction not only in America but throughout the democratic world."

The majority of the papers gave one of their four pages to the full text of other articles connected with it.

RELIEF FOR GREECE

600,000 People Are Being Fed With Canadian Supplies

Ottawa. — The external affairs department in Ottawa hears that almost 600,000 people of Greece have been fed recently from Red Cross soup kitchens using Canadian food supplies. The despatch to Ottawa came from Prince Charles of Sweden, the president of the Swedish Red Cross. Prince Charles reports that so far Swedish ships have carried 76,000 tons of Canadian wheat to Greece, as well as dried vegetables, powdered milk and medical supplies.

A despatch from a British United Press correspondent in Ankara says that the people on the islands surrounding Greece are still without enough food. One thousand tons of Canadian flour has been distributed on the islands by the International Red Cross. But right now there's only enough left to last a few weeks.

CREDIT UNION SUPERVISION

Winnipeg. — Establishment of a new office for the supervision of credit unions and the appointment of Pierre A. Frossard, of Lorette, Man., as the first supervisor, was announced by Hon. Douglas Campbell, minister of agriculture. There are 53 credit union societies in Manitoba.

PULL TOGETHER CANADA

Our fighting men need to know that a new world is actually being built now. That world does not wait for the paper plans of some commission or even for some great leader. We claim to be free people, and that new world order cannot be imposed on us from the top. It has come from us. How?

Our task is not only to defeat dictators, but to cure dictatorships. Dictatorship, with all its train of force, fear and class and racial hatred, happens simply when people will not govern themselves—when they will not work or will not pull together. Where teamwork stops, dictatorship begins. And teamwork means that all the time we have to be changing our attitudes and ways of doing things so as to be able to pull together with the other fellow. Prejudice and laziness and jealousy are the commonest kinds of dirt in the wheels of teamwork, and the lubricant most commonly needed is admitting you're wrong and saying you're sorry.

The world is waiting to see what alternative we have to offer to an order based on racial or class hatred, and whether it actually works well enough to produce the weapons of war at full capacity, and after the war to provide every man with a job and a sense of his purpose and importance. That alternative has to be produced by the ordinary people of our democracies, and will be produced if we pull together. "Pull Together Canada" is not only the name of a highly successful revue which has helped to bring management and labor and conflicting interests together wherever it has gone. It is, as The Halifax Chronicle stated in a recent editorial, "a battle cry for the wider stage which is Canada itself." It is a programme for every Canadian to adopt.

Owing to the severe cold, the Blairmore Public Library will remain closed until further notice.

Both C.B.C. programmes are carried on station CBK Watrous (540 Kcs.) and other stations of the western network.

RETAILERS SUBMIT

BUTTER COUPONS

Retailers replenishing stocks of butter are given a fortnight in which to submit expired coupons to their supplier, following the date on which butter coupons become void. A week of grace is allowed in which retailers may take or send expired butter coupons to the nearest ration office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Edmonton or Calgary, but not to local ration boards.

In this case a replacement certificate will be issued. After the third week, butter coupons not cleared with the supplier or ration office are void. Excess butter in possession of consumers may be sold back to retailers if the latter arrange with a ration officer of the Board for a special purchase permit. Unless retailers choose to apply for a special purchase permit, they need not accept butter from consumers. In this instance, consumers with excess butter are required to report the quantity on hand, over the one pound per person allowed by the order, and send in ration coupons to cover this quantity to the nearest office of the Prices Board.

Preliminary reports indicated more than 30 tons of butter in one week reported through Canadian consumers.

SALE OF HORSE MEAT

PROVED EXPENSIVE

Prosecuted for selling horse meat at the price of beef, a retail meat dealer paid a fine of $400 and costs in Quebec. For charging excessive prices for meals, refreshment and beverages, a Toronto restaurant was also fined $400 and costs. These were two cases out of fifteen prosecutions under prices regulations of the W.P.T.B. reported by the enforcement administration during the week of January 4 to January 9, inclusive.

In all there were thirty-two prosecutions of persons in Canada for violating Prices Board regulations, and eight for infractions of orders of the controllers of the department of munitions and supply. Only case reported from Alberta was a Rimby consumer who obtained gasoline without surrendering ration coupons. He was fined $15 and costs.

"MOUNTIE" GOES TO SEA AND "GETS HIS MAN"

astride a Nazi U-boat. Lt. Commander MacNeil has already lived up to the R.C.M.P. reputation of "getting his man"—the Dauphin recently rescued the entire crew of a Norwegian ship under difficult circumstances in mid-Atlantic. For this action he and a fellow officer, also a "mountie," were decorated by King Haakon with the Royal Norwegian War Medal for Gallantry.

Workers in Victory's Cause

Four of sixteen women who have swapped house dresses for slacks and overalls to clean cars and locomotives in the C.P.R.'s Vancouver shops are shown in action above. Mrs. Miriam Vojette, and Mrs. Patricia Plant (left), are cleaning the drive rods and wheels of a huge locomotive; and Miss Margaret Pailles and Mrs. Andy Alabaster, right, are doing a thoroughly housewifely job cleaning the interior of a coach. Releasing men for the armed services, these women, like thousands of others who are doing "men's jobs" throughout Canada, are doing their part to help win the war.

Chilly Days

German Prisoner in Russia Suffers From The Cold

In the Stalingrad area, Red Army men picked up Paul Reisinger, private of the Third Company, 670th Regiment, 371st German Infantry Division. His legs and right arm were frost-bitten. On interrogation Reisinger stated:

"Our company has not yet received winter clothing. Sergeant-majors and non-coms daily instruct the soldiers how to protect themselves from frost-bite. We were instructed to put rags over our boots, to lay straw around the boot tops, to protect our ears 'with towels. The soldiers are in very 'low spirits. They say, 'Last year's story is being repeated. We shall all freeze to death.' To cheer us up, we were recently told that the command has instituted a medal 'for participation in winter operations on the Eastern Front.' Only those who spent last winter on the front line are now being decorated with that ribbon."

"The soldiers have nicknamed this medal 'The Order of the Frozen Flesh.'—U.S.S.R. Bulletin.

JESUS WINNING SOULS

Golden text: He that reapech reapech wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal. John 4:38.

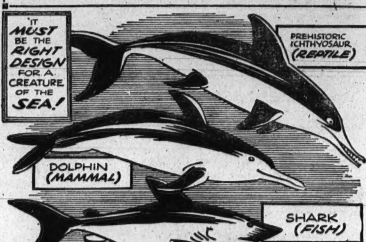

Lesson: John 4:1-42.
Devotional reading: II Corinthians 5:14-20.

John 4:27-42. And upon this came his disciples; and they marvelled that he was speaking with a woman; yet no man said, What seekest thou? or, Why speakest thou with her? So the woman left her waterpot, and went away into the city, and saith to the people, Come, see a man, who told me all things that ever I did: can this be the Christ? They went out of the city, and were coming to him. In the mean while the disciples prayed him, saying, Rabbi, eat. But he said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not. The disciples therefore said one to another, Hath any man brought him aught to eat? Jesus saith unto them, My meat is to do the will of him that sent me, and to accomplish his work. Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh the harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, that they are white as ready unto harvest. He that reapech reapech wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal; that he that soweth and he that reapech may rejoice together. For herein is the saying true, One soweth, and another reapech. I sent you to reap that whereon ye have not labored: others have labored, and ye are entered into their labor.

And from that city many of the Samaritans believed on him; because of the word of the woman, who testified. He told me all things that ever I did. So when the Samaritans came unto him, they besought him to abide with them: and he abode there two days. And many more believed because of his word; and they said to the woman, Now we believe, not because of thy speaking; for we have heard for ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Saviour of the world.

MEDICAL STUDENTS

An interesting article on the instruction of medical students in industrial medicine is summarized in a recent issue of the Canadian Public Health Journal. The author discusses the secondary place occupied today by many industrial physicians and suggests measures to rectify this condition.

He points out that there has been a gradual evolution in the history of the physician in industry but that the progress has been slow. He feels that the minor place of industrial medicine in the school curriculum is to blame for the existing condition.

Quoting Dr. S. Z. Levine, Cornell University, he says: "If the physician is to have the leadership in the health program he must study not only the technique of healing but also such social factors as family income, housing, clothing, nutrition, education and employment."

"It should be possible," he says, "to offer to industry physicians with sufficient knowledge so that they may assume their proper responsibility and status. With this end in view the author makes the following suggestions:

1. Industrial medicine should be offered to undergraduates as a separate course. By merely referring to disconnected bits of information in various courses throughout the curriculum as sufficient instruction in this field, the importance of the subject is lost.

2. The lecture hours should include well-chosen topics in a general vein. The scope of industrial medicine, its history and importance should be presented. Following this broad groupings are suggested:

- (a) Orientation and general considerations.
- (b) Placement of the worker from a physical standpoint.
- (c) Routine role of the physician in the plant.
- (d) Hazardous occupations, preventative measures, and care of employees under these conditions.
- (e) General health program for employees.
- (f) Research.

3. Field trips should be made to a well-organized industrial medical department with demonstration of the above topics in action.

CHAPTER II.

THE four men turned and followed Andre Ribott out of the cafe. Were they not Kahiri, Storey would have agreed that the quartet was the bodyguard of the fat little Frenchman. But the Kahiri were not native to Algeria. They were found only in Tripolitania, on the other side of the Libyan border, fierce Berbers who acknowledged the rule of neither Italian nor Senegal. Why should those wild men, as dreaded as their cousins the Touaregs, be in Ain Saffa obeying the orders of the equally despised French?

"The Kahiri intend to attack us when we leave the cafe," murmured Mohammed. "The whisper went through the coffee house that Ibrahim the Lawless had come to take from Sid Storey the money obtained from the sale of many sheep."

"You have your gun, Mohammed?" Storey asked.

The shepherd nodded, and a grin stirred through his beard. "I have a knife, also," he grunted. "The Sid intends to fight? There are other Kahiri in Ain Saffa, and we must kill any of them we shall have to leave town on the fastest of camels."

"What is written is written," remarked Storey. "As soon as that water shows up we'll lock horns with Ibrahim and his desert gangsters."

A moment later the thin-faced water shifted to the edge of the table. Storey smiled, and the other men would suspect nothing, what she had written on the card.

"What did she look like?" "She was young. More than that I cannot say, since she was covered from head to foot in a dark burqa. She was gone when I returned to the kitchen, but I think she was a girl of the Roumi—a French girl."

STOREY tipped the waiter and dismissed him. This was a four-act drama, with parts seemingly unrelated. What connection could there be between Andre Ribott securing meat for Hungry France; Jack Storey trekking across the desert to return of his native land; the fierce Berbers from Tripolitania and this unknown girl who had come out of nowhere?

"Shall we go, Mohammed?" suggested Storey.

The shepherd loosened his cloak, exposing belted knife and gun, rose with Storey and stepped with his friend and former employer to the door and out of the cafe.

"Let us go this way," said Mohammed in Arabic. "It is longer, but in a direction where the Kahiri are least liable to be lying in ambush."

The course of the shepherd was the safest procedure. Yet as he moved in the wake of his cloak-clad companion Jack Storey half-wished that the encounter with Ibrahim or Ribott would be precipitated. If Mohammed led him safely through the tortuous streets to the hotel and they were able to slay the detective, Alin Saffa, which was undoubtedly the next step on the shepherd's program, the American might leave Africa with all this mystery explained.

Relieves distress from MONTHLY FEMALE WEAKNESS

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used for many months by me and has relieved me of all my monthly pain but also weak, nervous feeling, due to irregular menstrual disturbances. It helps build up resistance against distressing "flashes" and "hot flashes." Made in Canada.

MOHAMMED stopped so suddenly that Storey's foot struck against the slippery heel of the guide. The Moslem was peering ahead into the gloom. "Did you hear anything, did?" he whispered.

The street had narrowed to such an extent that jutting balconies of opposing buildings had transformed the thoroughfare into a tunnel. Out of the darkness came the rattle of a loose cobblestone. Mohammed fastened against the nearest wall, and then the shadows under the balconies condensed into darker shapes, a blot of men moving through the street.

"The Kahiri!" Mohammed whirled slightly, his fingers, dragging at the cloak of Storey. "Hurry, did, before they see us."

At the first winding corner the street became another place of shadows. Again Mohammed alid to a halt. Before his married oath could announce that they were trapped silent figures had leaped beside Storey and the shepherd, daggers whipping from scabbards.

Mohammed had jerked out his own knife in time to block the blade that slashed at his throat. A hurtling body rammed against Storey as he attempted to draw his gun. Another Berber dove, jumping Storey against the building, and over the sprawled man a knife rose. But before the weapon could fall, Storey had leaped through the darkness and the man with the dagger collapsed beside Storey.

A heavy flash of lightning blazed clear, and as the American struggled to his feet a hand gripped his torn tunic. "Monsieur Storey!" sounded a tense whisper in his ear. "Come with me!"

STOREY had a momentary glimpse of a small dark-eyed face under the hood of a robe that blended with the shadows into which the slight figure was drawing him. Voice, face and form had been those of a woman, but the strength in the hand that clutched him was so near to being masculine that Storey found himself clear of the milling Kahiri and in a passage between buildings before he could check his would-be rescuer.

"Don't stop!" urged the girl, tugging at his arm. "If you are captured, monsieur, it means your death."

"But—Mohammed—" By main force, Storey freed his arm. "I cannot leave him—he is in danger, too."

"Monsieur—" Again the girl in the barracan caught at him. This time Storey could not break her clinging hold, but in spite of her lampering efforts, he gained the mouth of the passage.

The number of men in the street seemed to have increased, and shouts and commands had broken the silence. There was a light, also, gleaming not on knife-blades but on the dull metal of rifle-barrels.

"Qui vive?" A rifle, held by barrel and stock, slammed him against the wall. Two of the soldiers were holding the girl in the dark robe. The leader of the squad was kneeling beside a crumpled form on the cobblestones—the man who had been shot while attempting to knife Jack Storey.

The sergeant of police arose. "Shot through the head," he announced. He glanced indifferently at Storey, then stooped again to pick up two pistols—the gun that had been knocked from Storey's grasp in the fight with the Berbers—and one other weapon.

Other than the one dead Kahiri, the soldiers and the pioneers, the street was empty. Ibrahim and his followers had disappeared. Gone, too, was Mohammed bin Mulai.

"THE sergeant, finding that one of the pistols had been fired, pocketed the guns, then stepped closer to Storey. "Why did you kill this man?" he demanded in Arabic, then, getting a better look at Storey's features, he shifted suddenly to French. "Mon Dieu! You are European."

"Good thing you got here, Sergeant," grinned Storey. "Another five minutes and those Berbers might have proven too much for us."

"Berbers?" The sergeant stared blankly, then glanced up and down the deserted street. "There is only one man here. We saw no one else—just you and this girl and the man you killed."

The girl spoke. "There were at least six others, monsieur. They must have fled when they heard you coming. It was I who sent you the message informing you that a man in the cafe of Amar ben Yusuf was in danger."

"It seems that we came too late to save him," commented the non-com. "Monsieur—mademoiselle, you are both under arrest."

She—"No, the jury awarded me $10,000 heart balm."

"Conductor, will you help me off the train?"

Minister—Rastus, this is the first time I have seen you at church for a long time. I'm mighty glad to see you here.

Rastus—I had to come, parson. I needs strengthening. I've got a job white-washin' a chicken coop.

Clerk—Would you care to go by buffalo?

Johnny—I don't know. I've never ridden one.

"Look here, Mrs. Murphy, why have you been hitting my little Bobby?"

"I only hit him because he was rude and called me a fat old pig."

"But, good gracious, Mrs. Murphy, you ought to know better than that. Hitting my son won't do you any good; you'll have to start dieting!"

A lawyer came to London to locate a young woman who had fallen heir to a large fortune. The police were called in to aid in the search, and placed the case in the hands of a clever and personable young detective. Several weeks passed by without any information, and the lawyer was beginning to feel deeply concerned over the matter, when the young detective appeared and smilingly informed him he had located the hellens.

TRIO OF PATRIOTS

Three of a kind—and more to come! Here are three of the attractive Culligan sisters of Kitchener, Ontario, who were heard in a recent edition of "Comrades in Arms" over the C.B.C. national network (heard every Friday at 8:15 p.m. M.D.T.). Left to right are Airwoman Carol Culligan, Airwoman Pearl Culligan and Airwoman Olive Culligan. A fourth, Airwoman Ruby Culligan, was unable to attend the broadcast. But that's not all. There is a fifth Culligan, a charming miss who plans to join her older sisters in the R.C.A.F. next July. This weekly programme devoted to the united services of Canada's armed forces is carried on station CBK Wairous (540 Kcs.), and other stations of the western network.
